Summary

My background is primarily in customer relations. Through my employment history I have been able to work with customers both face to face and remotely. I have excelled in both environments and have a high level of customer satisfaction. I rely heavily on my ability to follow through, and stay consistent. Recently I have developed a passion for software development and have started honing my skills through UW's Coding Bootcamp.

My goal is to find a career opportunity with growth advancement available to those whom chose to seek it. I am hard working and always go above and beyond what is asked of me. I've always been proud of the fact that I solve problems rather than report them and hope to someday find a career that can allow me to benefit from this.
